The Senate: Responding to a Distant Voice

For the fourth time in its recent history, The University of Alberta Senate held its fall meeting beyond the borders of the University campus. At 8:25 a.m. on Friday 24, September a coach (known to some as a bus), full to capacity, pulled out of the Jubilee Auditorium parking lot and headed east, to Vegreville, Vermilion, and the border city of Lloydminster.

Forty-five of the Senate's sixty-two members were on that coach and would spend the next two days talking with the people of northeast Alberta in an effort to facilitate better understanding and communication between The University of Alberta and the greater Alberta community.

First stop? Vegreville, and the lavish Alberta Environmental Centre. After a welcome cup of coffee and greetings from R. Sherman Weaver, Executive Director of the Centre, Senate members were taken on a tour of the new, multi-winged, interdisciplinary research centre. Reactions were many and varied: amazement at the sheer size of the plant; interest in the scope of research being carried out; concern regarding the relationship between the Centre and the University; pleasure in finding, at long last, even a partial solution to the fairy ring... and not just a little shock at the size of the cockroaches (specimens, not inhabitants)!

At the conclusion of the tour (all Senate members present and accounted for) John S. Batiuk, MLA, Vegreville, brought greetings to the Senate and two briefs were received.

The first, by Harry Chomik, representing the Vegreville and area Chamber of Commerce, outlined several ways in which the University could improve its response to rural students: expansion of its traditional delivery system; the acceptance of greater responsibility towards a decentralized continuing education program; consideration of the inequalities faced by the rural student seeking post-secondary education; introduction of coping-strategy programs for rural students; and a consideration of collaborative review of scholarship applications.

The second brief received in Vegreville came from its Composite High School and dealt with one specific request: that status be given to the high school electronics program which currently is not recognized as University entrance level. "A vast amount of theory and practical information is included in the thirty-credit work load, and it would be an appropriate addition to University entrance requirements," explained high school guidance counsellor Cheryl Moren in making the presentation.

Discussions concerning the briefs followed, with assurances that they would be channelled to the appropriate sources. And then it was back on the bus, and on to Vermilion.

After a smorgasbord lunch at Lakeland College (the tone of which was, perhaps, affected by news of the death of John Forster), it was back to business.

The Senate received greetings from Vermilion Mayor Dave Hughes and local MLA Tom Lysons, Vermilion-Viking, both of whom were clearly pleased by the Senate's decision to visit the area. Mr. Lysons called for greater and improved communications between the University and the government saying "We're all in this together."

After greetings by President Horowitz in which he outlined initiatives being taken by The University of Alberta in the Lakeland area, G. Arthur Boggs, Director of Trades and Commerce of Lakeland College, gave Senate members a brief history of the College.

Established in 1913, it is the oldest non-degree granting post-secondary institution west of Winnipeg. With a history of revising its mandate to fit the changing times, Lakehead College now serves nearly 9,000 people and has a full-time equivalent enrolment of more than 900. It is Canada's first and only inter-provincial college, Senate members were told. A brief tour of the College concluded the second leg of the Senate's journey.

At 4:15 p.m., and right on schedule, the coach pulled in to the Wayside Inn in Lloydminster. That evening, nearly fifty members of the greater Lloydminster community were guests of the Senate at a banquet held in the Garden Grill. Joining the Chancellor at the head table were, among others, Pat Gulak, Lloydminster Alderman; J.E. (Bud) Miller, Associate Minister of Public Lands and Wildlife; and Terry White, Dean of Arts and keynote speaker for the evening.

"With broad brush strokes," Dean White painted a picture of change, and discussed the effects that change would have on students and on society. Stressing the need for students to receive a broadly-based education, he spoke of the need for flexibility and the importance of being able to adapt to the changes so evident in society today.

His comments were well received. In the words of Sherburne McCurdy: "When you hear that much sense from an academic, there must be hope."

Saturday, 25 September was a busy day for the Senate, as it conducted its regular business meeting and received three briefs from visitors.

At the outset, Peter Savaryn made his first report to Senate. Highlighting his various activities since succeeding Jean B. Forest as Chancellor, Mr. Savaryn emphasized the importance of meetings such as the one taking place in Lloydminster.

Next up was Dr. Horowitz. In making his report, the President highlighted some of the developments that have taken place at the University in the past months: unclassified students, McTaggart Fellowships; the new Central Research Fund; and the new early admissions policy to name but a few.

Mary Totman, Executive Officer of the Senate, announced in her report that Jannetta MacPhail, Dean of the Faculty of Nursing, would make a presentation at the November Senate meeting. W.A.D. (Doug) Burns reported on the most recent enrolment statistics, which show an increase of more than 1,600 students this year, an increase of some 8.49 percent.

Inside:
Senate Annual Report
1981-82

Reports were also received by the Senate from several of its committees, including a report from the Honorary Degrees Committee which put forward two names for consideration as recipients of honorary degrees at Fall Convocation: W.P. Wagner, "one of a very small number of people who have had success in providing Edmonton with first-rate educational facilities, first-rate teachers, and a first-rate curriculum;" and Andrew Pattullo, who has "exerted a profound influence on the development of educational and research activity in the field of health services administration." Both selections were unanimously approved by the Senate.

And so, with its regular business meeting concluded, the Senate received a number of briefs. The first was submitted by Merv Loewen, guidance teacher at the Lloydminster Comprehensive High School. His topic: special considerations for "border students."

Lloydminster is situated squarely on the border of Alberta and Saskatchewan and, over the years, has been the focal point of unique challenges in administration. The school system, for example, is administered by the Saskatchewan Department of Education. This means, according to Mr. Loewen, that Alberta residents attending Lloydminster High School are considered to be "out of province" students in their own province. This, in turn, causes some difficulties in connection with application deadlines to The University of Alberta (Saskatchewan processes its marks a full month later than does Alberta). Mr. Loewen's plea was that "our border students not be lost in the red tape of interprovincial relationships." He indicated that one of the main reasons for low enrolment of Lloydminster students at The University of Alberta was the late-registration difficulty. He also cited the size of the campus as a deterrent to some small town students.

A second brief received at the Senate meeting was that of Roy Murray, President of Lakeland College. In his presentation, Mr. Murray looked at ways in which the existing cooperation between Lakeland College and The University of Alberta might be expanded to the benefit of both. In particular, he suggested that joint research projects, beneficial to the people of Alberta, might well be undertaken. In addition, he recommended that a study be initiated to explore the feasibility of establishing University transfer at Lakeland College for the BSc in Agriculture. Of particular interest to some Senate members was a third suggestion put forward by Mr. Murray, that being that the University's fine arts departments consider offering workshops in northeastern Alberta. "Senior fine arts students, and perhaps even faculty, could use northeastern Alberta as a periodic practice stage, performing for rural audiences."

The third and final brief was one made by Joe Simpson, a grade eight history teacher in Lloydminster. He suggested that since the summer is the only block of time available for teachers to receive further education the graduate program be modified to allow for a master's degree to be received through summers only.

"What you suggest presents us with a very real problem," said President Horowitz in reply. "A master's degree is much more than just a collection of courses... we cannot offer theses programs on an extension basis." It was agreed, however, that some valid issues were raised by Mr. Simpson that warranted further attention. It was suggested, for example, that his concerns might well be channelled to the Senate's Task Force on Mature Students for its consideration.

And with that, the first Senate meeting of the 1982-83 academic year drew to a close. As Senate members boarded the bus/coach for the trip home, they did so with the knowledge that the people of Vegreville, Vermilion, and Lloydminster had benefitted from the contact. As Merv Loewen put it: "Your presence in our city today reflects your desire to respond to a distant voice — and for this, we thank you." □

The Wide World of Sport Psychology

The Canadian Society for Psychomotor Learning and Sport Psychology will hold its annual conference in Edmonton from 13 to 16 October. The Society, which originated at The University of Alberta some fourteen years ago, has enjoyed a wide membership of professors and researchers from throughout North America. The organizing unit, consisting of R.B. Wilberg, L. Wankel, and R.B. Alderman, all of the Faculty of Physical Education and Recreation, has designed the conference to include both the theoretical and practical aspects of human skill and sport psychology.

Guest speakers from England, Holland, the United States, and Canada will be in attendance.

The conference will be held at the Hotel MacDonald; interested parties should contact Dr. R.B. Wilberg, Department of Physical Education (432-4107), for further information. □

John Forster, 1927-1982

John Forster, Dean of Graduate Studies and Research, died on 23 September 1982, after a lengthy illness. He was fifty-five. He is survived by his wife, Nora, and three children, Janet, Paul and Carol.

Professor Forster was born in New Zealand, where he attended Victoria University and received his Teaching Certificate at Wellington Teacher's College before going to America to pursue studies in Anthropology and Sociology. He earned degrees from Kent State (BA 1952), the University of Hawaii (MA 1954), and the University of California, Los Angeles (PhD 1959).

His first academic appointment was in 1957 as Assistant Professor in the Department of Sociology at the University of Minnesota, where in 1963 he was honored with the University's Outstanding Teacher Award. In the same year, he accepted a post as Senior Lecturer at Victoria University, Wellington. His department at Minnesota was prepared "to battle with the administration to keep him," but realized that at that time his return to New Zealand "was something of a sentimental journey to the country of his origin." By 1967 he was "ready to return to the mainstream of development" and joined the Sociology Department of The University of Alberta in 1968. He moved quickly into the administrative side of the University, becoming Associate Chairman of his Department in 1969, and Chairman in 1970. In an introduction to his successor in Folio, retiring Chairman, Professor Hirabayashi, touched on the highlights of Professor Forster's professional activities to that point.

"He has served as a Consultant (1962) to the Pakistan Peace Corps Project, was Reader (1960-63) for the National Science Foundation (Social Science Section) and Consultant to the New Zealand Department of Mental Health (1965-68). His major professional interests are in the areas of social and economic development and social change. He has worked throughout the Pacific on problems of social and economic adaptation faced by Pacific Island communities. His publications deal with aspects of this research as well as with New Zealand. His most recent publication Social Process in New Zealand is an entitled volume concerned with contemporary changes in the New Zealand population and labour force."

He continued his rise in the administrative field, becoming Associate Dean of the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research in 1972 and Dean in 1976.

In supporting his application for a position at The University of Alberta, his colleagues at Minnesota spoke in superlatives, rating him as a superb teacher and advisor of graduates and undergraduates alike, fluent, and possessed of "the rare ability to motivate the student to an extra effort." They were equally positive about his performance as a scholar, rating his work as "of the highest rank and the occasion for spirited and enthusiastic response on the part of the faculty and other sociologists."

When he was asked to account for his success in lecturing to mass classes of undergraduates, his response was more modest. Since earlier in New Zealand he had shown a talent for stage acting, sufficient to catch the eye of the touring Laurence Olivier, he replied with a touch of self-deprecating humor, "It must have been the ham in me."

The list of his significant work as Dean in committees, boards, and associations fills pages. It encompasses not only his responsibilities in his Faculty, but in the University at large, and in national and regional committees and associations. Latterly, for example, his service as Chairman of the Western Association of Graduate Schools, President of the Canadian Association of Graduate Schools, and delegate to the OECD Conference, Paris, in 1980. The words used to describe the qualities that made him successful in this work are typically, "tact," "good judgment," "competence," "dedication," the ability to "clarify problems" through discussion. He was a master at presenting a problem clearly or summing up a discussion.

Throughout all this activity, the students remained his central concern. He attended graduate student oral examinations regularly "to get the feel of things," and made it his personal business to establish harmonious relations with the people in other departments. But he was at his best in informal encounters.

"Warm, approachable, interested, and provocative," he enjoyed listening to students and colleagues and sharing his thoughts with them.

Perhaps the key to his personality was his love of people. He saw them not as "guinea pigs," but as his very reason for being. Nor did he live in an "ivory tower." His interests extended to universities throughout the world, to the governments whose policies impacted upon them, and to the societies which they served.

To the many who responded to the warmth of his humanity, he was not just an associate, but a friend. They share a deep sense of loss. □

Walter C. Mackenzie Health Sciences Centre Officially Opens

The University of Alberta Hospitals is pleased to announce that the Walter C. Mackenzie Health Sciences Centre, one of the largest health care centres under construction in North America, will be officially opened at 1:30 p.m. on 15 October. The Honourable Peter Lougheed, Premier of Alberta, will officiate.

The Mackenzie Centre is being constructed in two phases and the first phase has been partially occupied since September 1981. It now houses 168 patients, the Department of Laboratory Medicine, the Provincial Laboratory of Public Health, and various hospital support departments. Full occupancy is scheduled for mid 1983 and the project will be completed in 1986. The Mackenzie Centre is designed as a state of the art medical complex and is a replacement facility for outdated in-patient, out-patient and diagnostic space currently in use.

As part of the official opening ceremonies a six kilometre fitness run will be held. The run will follow a route from the University Hospitals to the Legislature and back to the Hospitals. The run will commence at 1:15 p.m.

On 16 and 17 October public open houses will be held at the Mackenzie Centre from noon to 5 p.m. The University Hospitals invites members of the public to attend and learn more about the Hospitals' services by touring the Mackenzie Centre and viewing displays. There is no extra parking near the University Hospitals and visitors are asked to use public transit. □

Faculty of Business, New Building

The new Faculty of Business building will be constructed south of the Tory Building and between the Arts Building and HUB. It will lie parallel to the Tory Building, covering a space now used as a service road, thus will intrude very little into the landscaped Arts Court.

The Business Building will be connected to the Arts Building and HUB by overhead walkways, and to the Tory Building by a glass-walled and roofed galleria, extending the four storeys of the new building. Inside the galleria, which will house a lounge and modest eating facilities, will run additional connecting walkways, both elevated and at ground level. Other lounges, for students, faculty members, and administrative staff, plus a small cafeteria, will be located in the building itself.

The new building has been designed to incorporate facilities for almost 100 academics, 35 administrative staff, 1,700 undergraduate students and close to 300 graduate students. The latter will include both those working towards an MBA, as well as students enrolled in the Faculty's new Master of Public Management (MPM) program, which admitted its first students this fall. Provision has also been made for teaching and research facilities to accommodate the proposed and approved PhD program in business.

In addition to offices and classrooms, there will be a large reading room and library facilities, case rooms for projects involving the case study method of teaching, and larger laboratories, including some specially designed Accounting laboratories. As well, the building will contain meeting rooms, some specially designed for meetings with business executives and for expansion of the Faculty's executive development activity.

Particularly impressive will be the computer facilities available. The new Faculty of Business Building will be the first on campus with a network to connect terminals with a number of campus computers. When the building opens, 165 terminals will be in place, located in laboratories, and in offices of academic and administrative staff, as well as in a number of classrooms. Virtually every room will be wired for terminal use. Accommodation has also been provided for a major business systems computer which the Faculty hopes will be in place when the building opens in two years.

The exterior of the building will be faced with red brick and concrete, to complement and blend with the appearance of neighboring structures. Design, materials, and construction methods will ensure energy efficiency. Architects were Bittorf, Holland and Company, and construction will be carried out by A.V. Carlson Construction Corporation Ltd.

Construction soon to be underway represents Phase I of the Faculty's building program. Recent and projected growth in the demand for management education suggests a need for early future expansion. □

United We Stand

Our United Way campaign has just started. Unfortunately, it coincides with September's pay-cheque which included additional taxation for taxable benefits. During this four-month period we must make up for the 1982 year, after which the additional tax will drop to a more reasonable level. I hope this doesn't affect your feelings about the United Way campaign. Our goal seems high ($110,000), but if everyone who has not contributed before pledges $18, or $1.50 per month, we will exceed that figure. Please help. Gordon Fearn's message parallels the thoughts enclosed in the United Way envelope you received.

Dear Colleagues:

The United Way is one way each of us can demonstrate support for the programs of the many agencies serving the Edmonton area. The slogan for the University's 75th Anniversary celebration is "What we do affects you." Perhaps through our contributions, the United Way can add a new dimension to these words.

The Senate

Annual Report 1981-82

The University of Alberta

In her last year as Chancellor, Jean B. Forest presided over seven Convocations. On each of these occasions she was supported by the President, the Chairman of the Board of Governors, and many members of Senate, the Board, and the Academic Staff.

On 16 October 1981 the new Agriculture-Forestry Centre was opened by Premier Lougheed, and in connection with this a Special Convocation was held in SUB Theatre at which A.G. McCalla received an honorary degree of Doctor of Science. Following the Convocation and Official Opening a reception was held and tours of the new facility were conducted. The regular Fall Convocation took place on 21 November 1981 and 465 recipients of an eligible 1,088 chose to attend the ceremony. F. von Weiszacher (of West Germany) and A.G. McGhan received honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws. Spring Convocation again spanned four days and, despite certain difficulties because of renovations at the Northern Alberta Jubilee Auditorium, the ceremonies proceeded smoothly as 1,541 of a possible 3,344 graduands received their degrees personally from the Chancellor. Honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws were conferred on the following: Archbishop J. MacNeil and Mrs. E. Taylor (31 May); The Hon. H. Strom and Mrs. E.P. Gowan (1 June); Dr. M. Wyman and Mr. G. Baldwin (2 June); and Professor H.G. Glyde (3 June). The second Special Convocation of the year took place in St. Paul on 25 June 1982 when Mother Teresa of Calcutta accepted an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from The University of Alberta at a ceremony in the cathedral at St. Paul. Although this formed only part of the activities of the day, the University was proud to participate in the special welcome and genuine reverence accorded to Mother Teresa during her brief visit to Alberta. To quote President Horowitz, "You are the most distinguished member of our University community."

Committee Business

The Executive Committee met

nine times during the past year and at the last meeting the Chancellor commented how much she had always appreciated the candid and lively discussions with the group. Executive Committee meetings are opened to all members of Senate and all decisions are subject to ratification at plenary sessions of Senate. The Executive Committee met with members of Alberta Advanced Education and Manpower to discuss proposed changes to the Universities Act as they affect Senate; invited the President of APEGGA to one of its meetings to discuss a brief calling for expansion to the Faculty of Engineering; and advised the Minister on the disposition of the Report on Quotas, prepared by the Universities Co-ordinating Council. An important task of this committee is to prepare the agenda for the regular meetings of Senate and the committee is sensitive to the need to provide a forum for discussion of post-secondary education issues, so that all members of Senate feel encouraged to participate. To this end it is becoming customary, at least once a year, to organize small group discussions on carefully prepared topics.

An innovation this year also was the meeting held at the beginning of April attended by members of the Executive Committees of the Senates at the Universities of Alberta, Calgary, and Lethbridge, together with members of the Governing Council of Athabasca University. The Minister of Advanced Education and Manpower offered the use of Government House and hosted a luncheon which was very much appreciated. The rest of the day was spent in listening to presentations by the different universities on the role of the Senate in the eighties, and participating in small group discussions on this topic. Further presentations were held after lunch, and informal interaction between individuals followed. The costs were shared by all the institutions. Evaluation of this meeting was most favorable. It was a unanimous recommendation to hold another such meeting in the future, with certain refinements to the agenda. It was also hoped the Minister might be able to spend more time with the Senate members.

The Nominating Committee met twice: once to prepare a slate of names for presentation to Senate to fill vacancies among the publicly elected members of Senate; and once to make committee appointments. Nominations are solicited through advertisements in carefully selected newspapers in northern Alberta, and the committee constantly reviews the membership of Senate and strives to maintain balanced representation from all sectors. The Nominating Committee also organized an orientation of all new Senate members. This is considered most valuable in helping people understand the role of Senate.

The Honorary Degrees Committee is charged with choosing recipients for honorary degrees at Spring, Fall, and Special Convocations from nominations received. Again, a limited advertised campaign is undertaken so that there are often as many as fifty nominations to consider. The Committee is confident that, through its choice of recipients, the University honors outstanding people, and that recent recipients have continued to bring honor to the University by their acceptance of honorary degrees.

The Emil Skarin Fund Committee distributes monies accruing from the Emil Skarin Bequest. Preference is given to projects with an emphasis on the humanities and the arts, in accordance with the terms of reference agreed with Mrs. Skarin. This year three projects were supported. Funding was made available for the purchase of microscopes to be used by the Devonian Botanic Garden for an Interpretive Nature Program for Children (it is anticipated that this will attract a matching grant from Alberta Advanced Education and Manpower's 1980 Capital Endowment Fund). Professor J.A. Forbes of the Department of Art and Design received monies to assist in his work in the preparation of a monograph on the art of the late J.B. Taylor; and a modest sum was granted to Dr. and Mrs. Cruden for the placing of a plaque on the Garneau Tree (a maple planted about 1874 marking the homesite of Laurent Garneau). Applications to the fund will be solicited in early spring 1983 and the announcement of the 1983 awards will be made at the April 1983 meeting of Senate.

Senate Business

For the third consecutive year Senate chose to hold the first meeting of the academic year off campus, and members were pleased to have Mr. John Schlosser, Chairman of the Board of Governors, with them as they visited the Yellowhead area on 25 September. The Senate travelled by coach to Edson to enjoy a coffee break and meet members of the community; went on to have lunch at Hinton with guests from Hinton and Grande Cache, together with members of the Minister's Advisory Committee on Further Education (who were also visiting the area); received four briefs and then continued to Jasper where at a banquet that evening Dr. Ian Reid, MLA, was the guest speaker. The regular Senate meeting was held in the Jasper Activities Centre on Saturday, and, in addition to receiving four briefs, Senate members discussed the Minister's proposed tuition fee policy, a matter which prompted a lively and lengthy discussion before a consensus was reached.

Senate members had discussed the possibility of extending the "off-campus meeting" concept to the City of Edmonton, and in January held a meeting at the Edmonton Inn where, despite bitterly cold temperatures, there was an extremely good turnout of Senate members and members of the community. Ten briefs were presented. Subjects included more funding for the Faculte Saint-Jean, problems of the gifted child, and special programs for native students. Senate was pleased to have so many members of the public present at this time.

Senate continued to invite Faculties to make presentations at its meetings. This year, the Acting Dean of Law and the Deans of Medicine and Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Science shared information about their Faculties and answered the many questions prompted by their talks. This has proved a valuable way of helping Senate members understand some of the aims and achievements of individual Faculties; and since Senate meetings are open to the public, it also provides an opportunity to raise the level of public awareness. In addition, reports were given by members who were representing Senate on the 75th Anniversary Committee, the Board of Governors, and the Academic Development Committee. L.C. Leitch (Vice-President Finance and Administration) attended a meeting to clarify for Senate members the budget process at the University and to explain how the administration deals with priorities and other difficulties. The International Student Adviser, Ruth Groberman, gave details of the current enrolment statistics of Visa Students at The University of Alberta and other developments in this area; and

Also honored at Spring Convocation was Henry Glyde.

Dr. S. Hameed reported to Senate on behalf of the Minister of Advanced Education and Manpower.

The Senate Lay Observers to Quota Faculties presented a report which was forwarded to General Faculties Council. The observers all indicated how much better they appreciate the difficulties encountered by admissions committees of Quota Faculties and are gratified that GFC considers their involvement to be of real worth. Suggestions from Faculties concerning the possibility of extending the term of an observer, and appointing an alternate, will be discussed by the Nominating Committee.

Senate members were also brought up to date on the proposal prepared by the Faculty of Education for a Centre for the Study of Learning Disabilities — a centre first mooted in the report of the Senate Task Force on Children and Others with Learning Disabilities; and were pleased to learn of the decision of the Board of Governors to hire an external consultant to look at the career paths and employment opportunities for non-academic staff, as recommended in Recommendation 6, Status of Women Task Force Report, May 1976.

Following a suggestion made last year, contact was made with as many former off-campus Senate members as possible to see who was interested in being kept informed of the work of Senate. Over thirty expressed a wish to receive Folio and to be invited to occasional meetings of Senate. We were delighted, in fact, to welcome some of them at the 30 April meeting.

Commission on University Purpose

It was at the April meeting that Senate saw the culmination of 2½ years' work on the Commission on University Purpose. Funded with a special grant from the Board of Governors, and intended to be one of Senate's contributions to The University of Alberta's 75th Anniversary Year, this report was presented with flair and enthusiasm by the members of the committee, under the chairmanship of Dave Usher. By June of this year 1,100 copies had been distributed.

The Commission was commended for the way it had tackled a diffuse and difficult subject. It was also praised for meeting controversial issues head on rather than avoiding them. The Senate members felt that the report would be of real value as a point of reference for the future, and reaction from other institutions has confirmed this. Copies of this report along with copies of all Senate reports, are available from the Senate Office.

Liaison With Other Bodies

Over the past year we have been pleased to welcome to Senate meetings Barbara Clark and Jim Dunstan, Executive Officers of the Universities of Calgary and Lethbridge respectively; as well as Keith Sveinson, Vice-Chairman of the Executive Committee of the University of Calgary Senate. Mary Totman has in turn visited these universities. Certainly the meetings of Chancellors — meetings which John Elson, Chairman of the Governing Council of Athabasca University, also attends — have proved a valuable means of improving communications between the universities.

Senate had discussed the possibility of establishing a task force to review the special needs of the gifted child. However, this project was temporarily shelved until the Minister of Education's Task Force on the same subject presents a report. This is expected in December 1982. Senate did express to the Minister its support for his task force and we were delighted to have one of our members, Pierre Gariépy, appointed to serve. The Senate looks forward with interest to the publication of this report.

Activities of the Chancellor

The Chancellor, whose legislative role is to represent the public interest in the University, is the Chairman of the Senate and an ex-officio member of the Board of Governors. She continued to represent the University on campus and off on many and varied occasions during the past year; on social occasions, such as the Jubilee Ball in Banff, and at other post-secondary institutions, for instance, on the occasion of the official opening of the Fine Arts Building at Lethbridge, and at the Alberta College Graduation Exercises. She moderated a session at a conference on Federal-Provincial Funding, sponsored by the Edmonton Social Planning Council, and was one of several University of Alberta people who spoke on their perceptions of the "State of the University" at an evening function hosted by the AAS:UA. She participated in the Festival of Nine Lessons and Carols instituted this year by the Chaplaincy and met with Deans and Senior Administrators, to discuss with them their work and concerns. Chancellor Forest took part in several media events, including a talk-back show on "Is a University Valid?" She met with members of Alberta Advanced Education and Manpower to discuss proposed amendments to the Universities Act; presented a report to the Minister's Advisory Committee on University Affairs; and, at the request of Senate, personally presented a copy of the Report of the Commission on University Purpose to Mr. Horsman. At the invitation of the Dean of Business

she met with members of his Faculty to discuss recommendations contained in the Senate's Task Force on Second Languages. She continued to meet Chancellors of other universities to discuss items of mutual interest. In her final report to Senate as Chancellor, Mrs. Forest said, "It would be my hope that Senate would always regard its independence and its objectivity as the voice of the public to be the greatest asset which it could bring to the University."

And then there were the speeches! In recognition of her activity in this area, and as a parting gift from the Senate Office, at the last Senate meeting she chaired as Chancellor, Mrs. Forest was presented at luncheon with a bound volume of speeches she had made while Chancellor. In addition, the desk set that she had used during her term of office was given to her as a memento. On the same occasion, she received, on behalf of Senate, from Senate member Betty Finch, a water color painted by Ron Finch presented "in honor of the chancellorship of Mrs. Forest." On the very last day of her term as Chancellor, Mrs. Forest attended a Garden Party held in her honor at University House. The Convocation Band played and many people from the University and from off-campus took the opportunity to say farewell. On that occasion she was presented with her Chancellor's robe by the President, given a certificate as Chancellor Emeritus by the Registrar, and learned through an announcement by former Chancellor Louis Desrochers of the Jean B. Forest Scholarship. Thus ended what the President has termed "the Forest years."

Election of New Chancellor

At the Senate meeting in November, the Chairman of the Search Committee for a Chancellor presented the names chosen for inclusion on the ballot in accordance with the legislation; and at an in-camera session, Senate elected Peter Savaryn to be the twelfth chancellor of The University of Alberta. Mr. Savaryn, an Edmonton lawyer, has already served the University for six years, from 1972-78 as a member of the Board and as a member of Senate. We look forward with enthusiasm to working with him during his four-year term.

Coming Year

The first major event will be the Installation of the new Chancellor in Convocation Hall, followed by a Reception to be held outside the Arts Building. It is planned to ask the Convocation Band to play here and later on in the evening at the Dinner to be hosted by the Chancellor to mark the official beginning of the 75th Anniversary Year.

The first Senate meeting of the new academic year will take place in Lloydminster, with stops also in Vegreville and Vermilion. Senate will be able to meet people from these communities and learn something of the particular expectations they have The University of Alberta. Fall Convocation takes place on 20 November 1982, and Spring Convocation on the 30 and 31 of May, and 1 and 2 June 1983.

This year Senate expects to receive the follow-up report to the Task Force on Second Languages; a report from the ad hoc committee set up to discuss the feasibility of instituting community service awards to members of the University staff; and a report from the Mature

Students Task Force.

Once again Senate members will be asked to donate many of their hours to Senate and to the University; a donation which they undoubtedly will be willing to make during this special anniversary year, and during the World University Games, which are a culmination of this year.

Turner Time

A fine piece of work was J.(ohn) D.(avenall) Turner. One of western Canada's first and most respected artists, he spent most of his eighty years (he died in 1980) painting the Alberta countryside. And painting it splendidly — his works grace the collections of the Peter Whyte Foundation, the Glenbow-Alberta Institute, the Alberta Art Foundation, The Universities of Alberta and Calgary, the Calgary Court House, and numerous private collections.

Turner's artistic bent also covered sculpting, writing, and cartoon drawing. Humor was prevalent from the day that he decided to become an artist. As he wrote in his 1978 publication The Artful Codger, "In these burgeoning days of cultural awareness it is the in-thing. Encouragement is given to the artist by ever widening doors of opportunity. The worse you paint, the more creative you are considered to be; and if you are bad enough, you may well qualify for a Canada Council grant or other similar emolument.

"As yet, unfortunately, I have not been discovered. But there is a time coming, when the degree of my artistic imperfection will astound the most discerning critics of modern painting. It may, of course, come too late. If you are an artist it pays to be dead."

The light touch was accompanied by a searching talent that Turner was always true to. Alberta's landscapes have been well served, a fact that can be appreciated by means of a visit to Ring House Gallery between 15 and 26 October. A selection of Turner's paintings and sculptures will be exhibited.

Another way to get to know Turner is through Sunfield Painter: The Reminiscences of John Davenall Turner. Just published by The University of Alberta Press, Sunfield Painter effortlessly draws the reader into a recollection that moves comfortably from England to a homestead near Vegreville (1906) to the bustling metropolis of Edmonton (1912) where Turner and his two brothers eventually formed the Edmonton Plastic Display Company. "Our kitchen was the main office and manufacturing plant, with branches all over the rest of the house. Apart from the name, our card indicated that we could undertake any assignment in the field of visual art."

The Brothers Turner were to come into contact with the fledgling University of Alberta. The Medical Department required the production of exact scale models of the human epiglottis and other related portions of the anatomy to illustrate the various conditions of the thyroid glands, both normal and otherwise.

The challenge was taken up eagerly. "After a considerable time, we had a house full of the most realistic extractions from the human throat in natural colors indicating small veins and windpipe, muscles, and cartilage. It was just as if the rather unpleasant looking portions might have been recently removed from the body. They were highly successful and were received by the authorities with many compliments upon their accuracy. The several slightly imperfect copies left over were sometimes used as a centre ornament on the dining-room table when entertaining friends at dinner."

His brilliant career included becoming co-organizer and charter member of the Edmonton Art Club (1920), training in art in eastern Canada, service in the RCAF in the Second World War, and the founding of the Canadian Art Galleries in Calgary (1945). At the Galleries, Turner and his wife, Grace, showed, promoted, and sold paintings by today's highest priced artists for a fraction of their current value.

In 1965 he retired to paint, sculpt, write, and read, but mostly paint, at his home. Sunfield (just west of Calgary).

The 1982-83 University of Alberta Press Catalogue notes that Turner's reminiscences are written "with style, panache, and wit, and his accounts of 'Bohemian' Edmonton in the 1920s and the travels of a struggling artist are hilarious."

Sunfield Painter: The Reminiscences of John Davenall Turner contains 144 pages and features thirty-four color plates, black and white illustrations throughout. The book sells for $24.95. □

Research Grants

Granting Agencies:

Application Deadlines

This list of deadline dates for submissions to granting agencies for research funds, exchange programs, and travel grants is published every month in Folio. In order to allow sufficient time for processing, all applications should reach the Research Grants and Contracts Office at least ten days before the deadline date. Where other University resources are involved, the time requirement may be much longer than ten days and such applications should therefore be submitted well in advance. An extra copy of the application should be provided for the Research Grants and Contracts Office.

Further information may be obtained by consulting the Calendar of Granting Agencies for Research Funds, Exchange Programs, and Travel Grants, which is available in the offices of Deans, Directors of Institutes, Centres, and Schools, and Department Chairmen, or by phoning the Research Grants and Contracts Office, 432-2002. Note: Although the Calendar is updated on a continuous basis, the following information could be subject to change without notice. If staff members have advance information on forthcoming changes, the Research Grants and Contracts Office would appreciate being advised.

Code: (R) Research funds, (E) Exchange programs, (T) Travel grants. (Calendar source numbers are given in parentheses.)

The Shastri Indo-Canadian Institute

Origin and Purpose

The Shastri Indo-Canadian Institute was formally established in 1968 by joint announcement of the Governments of India and Canada to enhance mutual understanding between the two countries. Named in honor of the late Prime Minister of India, Lal Bahadur Shastri, the Institute represents a unique educational enterprise. The Institute, with support of the Canadian and Indian governments, endeavors to educate Canadians to an awareness of the riches of India's past and the challenges of its developing present, and through its Canadian Studies Program to promote study and knowledge of Canada in India. In Canada, thirteen universities and the National Library of Canada are cooperating in the advancement of Indian studies through the allocation of junior and senior fellowships and language training grants, the acquisition of Indian publications for Canadian university libraries, and the operation of special educational projects for undergraduates and school teachers.

Membership and Structure

The member institutions of the Institute include the National Library of Canada and the following universities: Alberta, British Columbia, Brock, Calgary, Carleton, Concordia, Manitoba, McGill, McMaster, Ottawa, Queen's, Regina, and Toronto. The Institute is governed by a Board of Directors which is composed of a representative from each of its member institutions together with the High Commissioner for India in Canada. To assist the Board in guiding the work of the Institute, Advisory Councils have been established in Canada and India. The Secretary of the Indian Ministry of Education is the Chairman of the Advisory Council in India and the Canadian High Commissioner in India is one of its members. The Institute's Head Office is located at the University of Calgary and it maintains an office in New Delhi, headed by a Canadian Resident Director.

Fellowship Program

Fellowships for research and study and language training in India are offered to junior and senior scholars in the humanities, social sciences, and performing arts in Canada. Primary consideration in the selection of fellows will be given to the professional competence of the applicant, and the suitability of his/her project in view of the Institute's objective of promoting knowledge and understanding of India in Canada. Applicants will also be expected to give all reasonable assurance that they plan to return to Canada following the tenure of the fellowship. Eligibility is open to Canadian citizens and landed immigrants. Citizens enrolled in graduate programs outside of Canada are also eligible for junior and language training fellowships.

Five types of fellowships are offered as follows: Senior Fellowships, Faculty Training Grants, Junior Fellowships, Language Training Fellowships, and Performing Arts Fellowships.

The deadline for receiving applications for all categories is 10 October 1982. Application material may be obtained from the Research Grants and Contracts Office, telephone 432-2002.
